SEVENTEEN PERISHED

Dire Result of the Explosion In a Shaft of the Port Royal Mine.

RESCUERS AMONG THE VICTIMS.

Went Down into the Shaft and Were Overcome by Firedamp—The Injured and Cause of the Disaster.

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—Not a practical miner in this district believes that one of the 17 men entombed in the Port Royal mine by the explosion is still alive. There was no fire in the mine to judge from appearances at the pit, but the force of the explosion was so great that none of the men, so the miners say, could have survived the shock.

The complete list of the dead is: William McCune, superintendent, married; John Keck, mine boss, married; William Allison, superintendent West Newton, married; Daniel Alsop, mine boss; Thomas Labin, miner, married; Michael Roy, fire boss, married; Thomas Gleason, fire boss, married; Chris Howells, fire boss, married; Anthony Steckles, married; Frank Davenport, miner, married; Taylor Gunsauls, sr., married; Taylor Gunsauls, jr., married; John Stakle, miner; Peter McCandide, married; John Burke, George Daly, Bernard Ball, miner.

There was a low, rumbling sound, followed by a roar which sounded like a cyclone, then three sharp and short reports. Immediately the mine catastrophe of seven years ago, still fresh in the minds of those made fatherless, was recollected, and simultaneously a rush was made for the mouth of the mine. When the first excitement had subsided, it was decided to try and rescue at least a part of those known to be entombed. As quickly as possibly a messenger was despatched on horseback to West Newton, which is five miles away, and while awaiting the arrival of appliances necessary to enter a burning mine, a temporary rescue party composed of the men who had knocked off earlier in the day was formed.

Rescuers Perished.

Fearlessly these men entered the shaft and started to the spot where it was thought some of the entombed men may be found. Lying at the bottom of the shaft were Lawrence Settler and John Stakes. Unconscious and covered with dirt the men were quickly taken to the top of the mine. They could give no information as to what had caused the fire, and told the rescue party that four other men were entombed. William McCune, of West Newton, general superintendent of this district; Dennis Wortley, pit boss of the mine; Michael Roy, foreman and several other bosses with about 10 men went down shaft No. 1, which is just opposite on the Baltimore and Ohio side of the river and they are probably lost. About three hours after the rescue party had been in the mine two more explosions were heard. Meantime the crowd around the opening of the shaft had increased, the crowd, including mothers, wives and sisters of many of the men entombed.

All sorts of plans were suggested for the rescue of the men. Some talk of turning the Youghiogheny river into the mines, but many opposed this idea for fear of drowning the miners. All that would be necessary to let a deluge of water loose in the mines would be to pull a plug which was placed in the mines after the explosion of seven years ago, and the water would rush into the mines at a rapid rate.

W. A. Sweeney and Frank Stratton came to the surface bringing Harry Beveridge in an unconscious condition, with both arms and a leg broken and badly burned. He cannot live. All three men succumbed shortly after reaching the surface. Sweeney, who was mainly instrumental in saving Beveridge, was able to tell that he climbed over the bodies of at least three men on his way out. The explosion occurred at the time when the shifts were changing from day to night turn.

All Hope Abandoned.

The last rescue party had been in the mine about an hour when the muffled report of another explosion was heard issuing from the depths of the shaft and a rush for the cage was made by the men above who thought these rescuers had met the fate of those who had gone before. A dozen men volunteered to go down and try and rescue the party, but their services were not needed, as the signal to hoist the cage was given from the bottom and when it reached the top, three unconscious forms were found lying on it. Fire Inspector Callaghan and Fire Boss McFee of the Wick Haven mines were the most dangerously hurt of the party and these men were taken to the hotel near by where two physicians worked with them almost an hour before they could be brought back to life. This last explosion in the minds of many seems to settle the fate of the entombed men, and all hope of getting any of them out alive has been abandoned. So far two dead and three living men have been taken out.

William McCune was superintendent of the Port Royal district, comprising five mines. He was a large stockholder of the Pittsburgh Coal company and his family lives in West Newton. William Allison was a second cousin of President McKinley.

The Port Royal mine has always been considered dangerous. There was a similar explosion in the mine seven years ago, by which one man was killed. The use of safety lamps has been made especially imperative in these mines by the district inspector of mines, owing to the great danger that was known to exist, but careless miners sometimes used open lights because they can see better to mine by them and this helps them to make a bigger day's wages. This is what probably caused the explosion, but the inquiry which will follow may develop a different cause.

The Port Royal mines are situated on the Youghiogheny river, 37 miles from Pittsburgh. They are owned by the Pittsburgh Coal company. The mines are located in the thick vein coal belt, and are for that reason extremely gaseous and dangerous. The state mining officials have made their management the object of repeated caution.

Danger Too Great.

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—The officials of the Pittsburgh Coal company issued an order refusing to allow any more men to enter the shaft, as the danger was too great. They are now considering the advisability of flooding the mine for the purpose of extinguishing the fire. There is now no hope of rescuing the entombed men.

SIGHS FOR THE SEA.

Pope Leo Impatient at His Confinement in the Vatican.

Rome, June 11.—The rumor in the United States that pope is again ill is without foundation. His holiness is well and has just granted audience to the Belgian dominical ministers.

The other day the pope stood gazing at the yellow strip of sunlit Mediterranean and turning with a sigh to his nephew, the pontiff used for the first time since his "imprisonment" a phrase which might have been construed as impatience at his "captivity." "Ah," he said, "how I wish I could go to sea again. It would really renew my youth. The last time I really stayed at sea was about 55 years ago, when I was nuncio at Brussels. I then went near Antwerp, on the advice of a physician and can vividly remember even now how cool the water was, how invigorating and what pleasure I took in swimming. I found the cure most beneficial."

Stockholders Shocked.

Chicago, June 11.—Central Union Telephone stockholders received a shock in the form of a special circular from John I. Sabin, the new president of the company, requesting them to consider the best way of securing $6,000,000 during the coming year to finance the company. The circular had a deadening effect upon the stock of the company and at the close of the Chicago exchange it had dropped nine points to a share. Mr. Sabin was placed in charge of the Central Union Telephone company by the American Telephone company, owner of the Bell patents, in order to put it on a paying basis. The company was organized 12 years ago and operates exchanges and toll stations in the smaller cities of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

As Breckinridge Views It.

Lexington, Ky., June 11.—In a letter in answer to one asking for his views on the reorganization of the Democratic party and future issues, Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge, ex-Democratic congressman, says: "For the next few years the currency issue and the expansion issue, tendered by the Democratic party and accepted by the Republican party, have been settled. We are, therefore, confronted with this actual state of facts: It is impossible to win without such a nominee and platform as will secure the support of those Democrats who refused to vote for Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900. It has occurred to me that the issue in 1904 might be our relations with our new possessions."

Major Booth Assigned.

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—Major Ruhlen, the local quartermaster, has been given an assistant in the person of Major Booth, United States army, assigned to duty as quartermaster in charge of the army transport Seward. Major Booth arrived here several days ago to sail for the north. Major Booth was formerly attached to the Seventh United States Infantry.

THE THIRD TERM IDEA.

President McKinley Effectually Disposes of Current Discussion.

NOT IN ANY SENSE A CANDIDATE.

Declares in a Public Statement That He Would Not Accept If Tendered a Third Nomination—His Words.

Washington, June 11.—The following statement has been given out at the White House:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice, but there are now questions of the gravest importance before the administration and the country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind, by even the suspicion of thought of a third term. In view, therefore, of the reiteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me."

"My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then with them to do my duty in the ranks of private citizenship. WILLIAM McKINLEY."

President McKinley's official announcement, disposing of the third term idea suggested by some of his admirers, created no great surprise among his friends, who have known of his deep convictions on the subject. When Senator Dewey's suggestion 10 ago that the president should be re-elected for a third term began to be seriously discussed, and when several of the president's friends felt called upon to endorse the idea, the president decided that the public mind should be instantly cleared of even the suspicion that he was seeking to break down the precedents of the past by becoming a candidate for another term. He broached the subject to Secretary Long. He told him he believed that an announcement at the very inception of the discussion would be wise and Monday night officially informed the members of the cabinet who had been informally called together, of his decision. He met with hearty approval. There was unanimous concurrence in the belief that discussion of a third term for the president, if allowed to go on, would not only place the president in a false light before the country, but would arouse antagonisms and greatly embarrass the administration in the solution of the great questions before it. The brief announcement which the president had prepared was given out by Secretary Long.

Henderson on Third Term.

Paris, June 11.—Hon. D. B. Henderson, speaker of the house of representatives, is quoted on the third presidential term as follows: "Regarding the third term, I will say first that I am opposed to it as a rule. Secondly, there may arise conditions demanding it, and therefore the hands of the country should not be tied up. Thirdly, as to President McKinley, the time has not yet arrived for discussing a third term. Continuity in office might dull the minds of the people and prevent them from perceiving the difference between election and life tenure. After 12 years in office, even people cursed with Boettian dullness will ask 'Quo Vadis?' The people invariably rectify our tendency to error."

Hanna's Comment.

Cleveland, June 11.—"It is just what I expected the president would say, if he said anything at all on the subject," was the comment of Senator Hanna, when he read President McKinley's statement in reference to a third term. "I have never exchanged one word with the president concerning the matter," he continued, "and have considered all the talk bearing on the subject as premature."

Woodmen of America.

St. Paul, June 11.—The 12th biennial camp of national convention of the Modern Woodmen of America was called to order in the auditorium, an immense audience crowding the great convention hall. Welcomes and responses and preliminary routine in the appointment of committees filled the opening session. The reports of the Woodmen head officers show a net gain of 211,370 in new members since the meeting of two years ago, carrying total insurance of $348,500,000. During the two years, 3,362 new local lodges were organized.

Greetings to Royalty.

Auckland, N. Z., June 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and

York, who arrived here from Sydney, N. S. W. on board the steamer Ophir, landed. They were greeted with salutes from the warships in the harbor and a popular demonstration on land. The town was crowded, among those gathered to greet the duke and duchess being many Maoris in native costume. In honor of the royal visitors the day was observed as a general holiday.

BY A TORNADO

Is Swept a Thriving Minnesota Town. Property Damaged.

Adrian, Minn., June 11.—A tornado swept through Adrian while the inhabitants were asleep. Thousands of dollars' worth of property was destroyed. No lives were lost. A few moderate sized stores were demolished. One residence was wrecked. Another was turned completely about, while half a dozen immense barns and innumerable outbuildings were wrecked. Trees, telephone and telegraph poles, etc., were destroyed over a large area. The path of the storm was nearly 3,000 feet wide, but fortunately, it only touched at few points.

Storm in Northern Ohio.

Cleveland, June 11.—A violent storm of thunder, lightning and heavy rain broke over Cleveland and vicinity, causing considerable interruption to telegraph and telephone wires, with other minor property damage. There was little or no wind. The telegraph lines west were all cut off between Cleveland and Toledo. Lightning struck a street car on Bank street, tore a hole in the roof and set the car on fire. The passengers were panic stricken and one of them, General Isaac R. Sherwood of Toledo, was stunned by the shock.

Struck By a Cyclone.

Larchwood, Ia., June 11.—A cyclone did considerable damage six miles southwest of here. Edward Ugland's house was wrecked. Mr. Ugland and a child were carried some distance and landed in a wheat field, bruised but uninjured. The other members of his family were unhurt. Near Lester, some distance east, a baby was killed and several people were injured. Many buildings and much farm property was destroyed.

Want Strikers Enjoined.

Hamilton, O., June 11.—Officials and lawyers for the Niles Tool works company left for Dayton to apply to Judge Kumler for an injunction to restrain the striking machinists from picketing their plant and interfering with and intimidating men who wish to return to work. Judge Kumler recently granted such an injunction in the case of the striking metal polishers at Dayton. The Niles people say that 300 of their men will resume work if the picketing is broken up.

Southern Music Teachers.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 11.—The second annual convention of the Southern Music Teachers' association convened here. Delegates were present from every southern state. Addresses of welcome were made by the mayor and the president of the chamber of commerce. Response was made by B. C. Davis of Atlanta and President R. H. Peters of Spartanburg, S. C. The convention will remain in session for three days.

Boatswain Badly Injured.

Honolulu, June 5, via San Francisco, June 11.—The battleship Oregon arrived here May 30, bound from the Orient to San Francisco. As she was dropping her anchor off port the chain broke, seriously injuring Chief Boatswain J. E. Murphy, one of the men who helped Hobson sink the Merrimac at Santiago. One leg was broken and Murphy was dashed against some machinery, receiving a dangerous gash on the head.

Fear Trouble in Korea.

Washington, June 11.—The protected cruiser New Orleans has been sent to look after the interests of citizens of the United States in Korea. Horace N. Allen, minister resident at Seoul, recently cabled the state department, stating that American interests would be endangered if McLeavy Brown, the financial expert of the Korean customs was removed and he protested against his removal. Mr. Brown is still in office.

Had the Goods on Him.

Chicago, June 11.—With several stolen letters in his pockets, Samuel S. Goodman, a clerk in the Chicago postoffice, was arrested for robbing the mails. The prisoner has a wife and two children and said he had been unable to support them on his salary of $600 a year. He waived examination and was held to the federal grand jury.

Washington, June 11.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians held a brief consultation after which the following statement as to her condition was issued: "Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she continues to improve and is slowly gaining strength."

HE'S NOT A MESMERIST

Brother of Lulu Prince Kennedy Testifies in Behalf of Defense.

COMBATS THE STATE'S CONTENTION.

Also Denies He Accompanied His Sister on Her Fateful Mission. Progress of a Celebrated Murder Case.

Kansas, City, June 11.—The defense opened its side of the case of Lulu Prince Kennedy, on trial for the murder of Philip H. Kennedy, her husband. The prisoner displayed more interest than at any time since the case opened, scanning each witness critically and listening eagerly to the testimony.

Will Prince, the prisoner's brother, who is charged with being the principal character in the alleged conspiracy to kill Kennedy, was brought from his cell and placed on the stand.

Thomas H. Ridge, the first witness, told of the scene in the Ridge building at the time of the murder. He had come upon the scene soon after a policeman arrived. Mrs. Kennedy had requested the officer to let loose of her hands, and when the doctor had said Kennedy was dead, she kicked the prostrate form exclaiming: "You'll never seduce another girl."

Through T. J. Noble, the defense endeavored to prove that the time of the murder as set by the state's witnesses was incorrect, but his statements in this respect did not differ materially from the evidence already adduced. The witness said the defendant appeared very excited, but on cross examination admitted that she had requested the officer to release her hands so she might arrange her hair, and that she had remarked she was not going to run away. The state's witnesses testified that the prisoner acted perfectly cool when arrested and when led away remarked that the murder had not caused much excitement.

Then Will Prince took the stand. He is a man of 30. He resembles his sister in features and looked at her constantly while giving his evidence. Prince, according to the theory of the prosecution, was a professional mesmerist, and in nursing her to commit the murder of Kennedy, exercised his hypnotic power over Mrs. Kennedy. Prince denied that he was a mesmerist, and said he never had been a prize fighter, as had been alleged. Prince detailed his whereabouts on the day of the murder. He had been with his patent attorneys during the morning, he said, talking over a patent he intended placing on the market and went home about noon, remaining there until about 3:30, when he returned to town alone. He went to his father's place of business and at 4 o'clock Mrs. Kennedy followed. He denied having accompanied Mrs. Kennedy to town a few hours before the murder when she was supposed to have been en route to Kennedy's office. The state tried to show that Prince left home with his sister on the afternoon of the murder, furnishing her with a revolver en route and instructing her in what she should do when she went to her husband's office.

Edward to Distribute Medals.

London, June 11.—Wednesday morning on the horse guards' parade King Edward, accompanied by the Queen, will distribute the South African medals, amid imposing and elaborate military displays. The first recipients of medals will be Earl Roberts and Lord Milner, who will be followed by a crowd of generals and staff officers, including Generals Buller, Warren, Gatacre, Colville, Pole Carew and others. Medals will be bestowed also upon the various foreign military attaches with the British forces in South Africa, including Captain Stephen Slocum, United States army, together with a host of surgeons, nurses and other persons, including Lady Sarah Wilson. It is expected that the ceremony will occupy three hours.

A Peculiar Ailment.

Batavia, O., June 11.—A case of muscular dystrophy has as its unfortunate victim 8-year-old James Parsons of New Richmond, this county. An extraordinary feature of his disease is that while apparently strong and robust, yet a gust of wind makes him lose his equilibrium and many times topple over. This disease is hereditary and is ascribed to the degeneration of the muscles which the connecting tissues of the body replace and fatten. The boy is under medical treatment in Cincinnati.

Big Steel Plant Leased.

Middlesborough, Ky., June 11.—It is rumored that the big Middlesborough steel plant has been leased by Pennsylvania capitalists.

This tariff question is looming up as a disturbing factor in Republican ranks. It is the opinion in Washington that it will be the paramount issue in the Congressional elections in 1902.

GOVERNMENT AID.
 The following from the pen of a doctor breathes the true spirit of liberty, indicates genuine charity and appeals direct to real manhood. It should be read and studied:

Do you always stop to think when you hear people advocating and urging "free" this and that, that nothing is free? Somebody pays for everything, and when legislatures appropriate large sums and create unnecessary offices to provide the public, or a class, with free anything, it comes out of the pockets of the tax-payers and should not be indulged wholesale, but wisely, judiciously. The robbing of Peter to pay Paul, under the guise of law though it may be, is the reverse of just, is the essence of all kinds of socialism.

Governmental free this and that not only robs the tax-payer, but diminishes his opportunities for making a living by substituting free service for individual efforts. Not only is the tax-payer mulcted, his individual rights infringed, and his opportunities lessened, but the class sought to be benefited is too often pauperized. The benefits of the compulsory exercise of personal initiative and choice, the cultivation of the sense of personal responsibility is taken from them. Poor-spirited from the start, incompetent, whining, willing to be dependent, protection and public catering still further enfeeble them in all that makes true manhood.

When Government starts in the business of bathing, feeding, lodging, educating and amusing those who are incapable or unwilling to do these things in their own behalf, it is simply breeding leeches to live off the bounty coming from honest, industrious, thrifty citizens. What the incompetent and inefficient members of society need is the constant stimulation of impending wants. This is the force supplied by nature for the instruction and development of intellect, the calling into play of all the resources of mind and body. Without them, and the constant forward and upward struggle which they impose and incite, there would have been no evolution of species, no human civilization.

They are the only forces which appeal to the lower orders of mankind, that is, the morally and spiritually undeveloped. And even those who have ascended the heights of being would inevitably undergo degeneration, but for the pressure of responsibility, the stimulus of the competitive struggle. Plainly the stress of hunger, the fear and memory of pain, want, suffering, rouse torpid energies, stimulate the intellect, discipline the powers. They teach men to subdue savage instincts and riotous impulses; to forego idleness and temporary enjoyment, to overcome inertia and procrastination, to accustom themselves, however unwillingly, to the drudgery of monotonous, distasteful work in order to provide against those pangs, to gratify those wants and desires.

Private and individual charity and philanthropy do, with much good, no little harm when injudiciously exercised. Fortunately, however, their manifestations are sporadic and spasmodic; people do not learn to count on it. But if the Government is to start out on all kinds of reform schemes and public benefits—all at the expense of the hard-working, thrifty tax-payer, be it remembered—the country will soon be suffering from a bad case of spinal debility with anaemia.

Bear in mind these bald, hard realities, which condition life and progress on this planet, before you endorse visionary, abnormal propositions which naturally appeal to the idealizing imagination, generous heart and benevolent impulses of the physician. We are not responsible for the plan of creation, but we must work it out in conformity with the scheme of nature.

A soap-bubble is beautiful, but not even the most fairy-like insect could live in it. Governmental schemes to make improvident, unstable, incapable people intelligent, prosperous, virtuous and happy at the expense of those who have become so through their own unaided efforts, have the same unsubstantial iridescence, and would prove as impracticable as dreams in their nature must.

A REPUBLICAN SCENTS DANGER.
 The Chicago Inter-Ocean, probably the leading Republican organ of the West, is evidently becoming alarmed over the agitation in favor of tariff reform as a solution of the trust problem. It fears that the rising tide will, unless checked, "sweep away not only protection, but also the other Republican policies with it." The Inter-Ocean's editorial in full follows:

The declaration of war launched at Congressmen Babcock by the Protective Tariff League presents an issue with which the Republican party must begin at once to reckon. Successive consolidation of great industries already had stirred the public mind to new thought. Then the formation of the United States Steel Corporation, the hugest of these combinations, came to give tendency to that thought. It made on the average man the impression that such corporations were too big—that they centered in a few hands powers too great for the safety of the republic.

That most products of such combinations are protected by the tariff is well known. Removal or decrease of the tariff to check their powers had long been advocated by extremists. The formation of the steel trust led tens of thousands to turn to that proposal as a remedy for the real or supposed evils. Congressman Babcock's bill was the concrete expression of the impulse of the moment.

The conviction that public welfare demands curtailments of trust powers may be wholly erroneous. The belief that tariff reduction would have the desired effect may be wholly unfounded. Nevertheless that conviction and that belief exists and are steadily gaining converts. They are forces which cannot be turned aside by personal attacks upon this man or that, and cannot be repressed by generalities about the benefits of protection.

The situation is such that those who would maintain the tariff on trust-made goods are on the defensive. This situation cannot be altered by ignoring it. The conflict between these who would keep protection at any cost and those who would sacrifice protection in the hope of disciplining the trusts is irrepressible. The present drift of that conflict against the Republican party is evident.

To overcome that drift the party must at once enter upon a campaign of education. And unless the party does this the rising tide will sweep away not only protection, but also the other Republican policies with it.

Gone to Maysville.
 [Winchester Sun.]

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Boswell and Mr. Boswell's sister, Mrs. Bettie Anderson, left Saturday (June 1st) for Maysville where they will reside. Mr. Boswell is now in charge of the St. Charles Hotel, of that city, which he has leased for a term of years, and without disparaging former proprietors, or flattering the present one, it is safe to say that the St. Charles will gain rapidly in popularity and patronage under the new proprietor's efficient management. The people of Winchester regret exceedingly to part with these good citizens, but at the same time take pleasure in commending them to the highest consideration of the people of their new home.

Burchard McKinley, formerly of Brown County, O., will wed Miss Elizabeth Webster, of Washington City, June 18th.

Seven Years in Bed.
 "Will 'wonders ever cease?" inquire the friends of Mrs. S. Peace, of Lawrence, Kan. They knew she had been unable to leave her bed in seven years on account of kidney and liver trouble, nervous prostration and general debility; but, "Three bottles of Electric Bitters enabled me to walk," she writes, "and in three months I felt like a new person." Women suffering from headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells will find it a priceless blessing. Try it. Satisfaction is guaranteed. Only 50c. at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drugstore.

The Chesapeake and Ohio earned gross in May $1,290,656, being an increase of $100,110.

The will of the late Mary Middleton was admitted to record Tuesday. She left her estate to Mollie and Frances Wilson, and named W. R. Lloyd as executor.

The new Christian Church at Cynthiana, erected at a cost of $30,000, will be dedicated next Sunday. The Maysville Manufactory furnished much of the material in the building.

The News-Democrat of Georgetown says County Surveyor Gordon, who has been confined at his home with an attack of fever, will resume work on the survey of the Dayton and Maysville traction line in a few days.

Prof. O. M. Patton, formerly of Aberdeen, has been made Superintendent of the Vine street school in the recent shake-up in Cincinnati. Mr. Patton at one time was at the head of the Aberdeen schools, going from there to Loveland, O., where he remained until two years ago. He resigned the Loveland position to take charge of the Garfield school in Cincinnati. His work was so satisfactory that Prof. Boone, the head of the Cincinnati schools, selected him for the Principalsip of the Vine street school, one of the most prominent in the city.

Honolulu, June 5, via San Francisco, June 11.—Details of a tragedy at sea were brought by the American schooner J. A. Campbell, Captain A. E. Smith, from Port Blakely, with lumber. The mate of the vessel, Adam Huber, was murdered by the Chinese cook, and the latter, after terrorizing the whole crew by holding possession of the galley for nearly 24 hours, during which it was every moment feared he would set fire to the vessel, was subjected to a steaming process to bring him out, but shot himself rather than come forth and be captured, and when the crew finally entered the galley they found the Chinaman's body literally cooked by steam.

Shanghai, June 11.—Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, British commander-in-chief on the China station, was the principal guest of the China station at its annual banquet. In the course of a speech protesting against the policy of trade exclusion, the admiral said Great Britain had three powerful rivals, the United States, Russia and Germany. Of the three, the United States was the greatest of her trade rivals, but the rivalry was not in conflict with Great Britain's policy of the open door. Germany was a keen competitor, both as regard trade and sea power. Great Britain, some day, would have to reckon with the latter. Russia was not only extending her territory, but was repressing trade.

THIS WEEK FOR MAKING TO YOUR MEASURE A RAINY DAY SKIRT

When the fair sex began riding the bicycle the greatest worry they had was to find a skirt suitable to the wheel at the same time one that would not in any way detract from their usual graceful form and beauty. Art found the skirt and lady rode the wheel. The comfort she found in these short skirts was indescribable. She stole a march on custom by wearing this short skirt on a rainy day, for she knew she would not be blamed for wearing it in such weather. Thus was the Bicycle Skirt renamed the Rainy Day Skirt, and like the patient that was ordered to take whisky and a pill so many times a day, after a few months was able to take the drink without the pill. So to-day the lady can wear her short skirt without the wheel.

We Are Showing the Prettiest Short Skirt in Town---

one that we feel proud to see you wear. It's a $10 made-to-order Skirt for $6.49 this week. Remember we are headquarters for all kinds of Skirts.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

Wheat Headed Low—Corn Has Improved. Most of the Tobacco Set Out. Stock Peas.

[Weekly Bulletin of the Weather Bureau.]

The temperature averaged considerably higher than during the preceding week, but was still decidedly below the normal. Frequent rains and the higher temperature have greatly improved crop conditions.

Corn has improved quite decidedly and is taking on a better color. The cut worms have attacked it viciously in some places, so that many fields have been replanted for the third time.

Oats, rye, grass and clover have improved rapidly. Apples are dropping badly, but other fruits look quite promising. Gardens late, but are now growing nicely. Irish potatoes are generally very promising. Stock peas are being sown quite extensively.

Severe thunderstorms with hail occurred during the week in Kenton, Grant counties, doing considerable damage, but the area injured was not large. Farm work is fairly well up.

Thomas continued to be an honest, industrious clerk all his life, and his services were much appreciated by Clarence and his father-in-law.

When to Stop.

The only time when I would cut off my advertising would be when I had more business than I could possibly attend to and when I had made up my mind I would not increase my facilities. If I were making all the money that I wanted to make, if my business had reached a proportion which completely satisfied my ambition, I would stop advertising. Even then I would not stop for very long, because if I did the business would start on the down grade. You have to advertise to make business and to hold it and to increase it.—Shoe and Leather Facts.

Wireless Messages.

The New York Herald has made arrangements to establish the Marconi system of wireless telegraphic communication between the Nantucket shoal lightship and the shore at Sankaty head, Nantucket Island, 43 miles distant. The sighting of steamers will be reported 193 miles east of Sandy Hook, giving friends of passengers ample opportunity to meet them, gaining about 13 hours' time on an average.

Advertising is a subtle science, so subtle, in fact, that by most of the people it is regarded as more or less a game of chance. This is a mistake. There is nothing in the world more certain than advertising if it is properly done. You can make a failure in anything—any line of business—if you do not go about it with a full understanding of its details and careful attention to them. Leave one single, little insignificant screw out of a locomotive and sooner or later there is going to be a smash up. Whenever advertising doesn't pay there is a loose screw or a lost one some place. Too many advertisers do not look beneath the surface.—Current Advertising.

Strike Situation at Newport News Takes a Serious Turn.

Newport News, Va., June 11.—The strike situation here has taken a most serious turn. A. L. Hopkins, assistant superintendent of the Newport News Ship Building and Dry Dock company, is authority for the statement that if the machinists do not return to work at once, the immense plant of the company will be closed and all operations suspended. Several departments, he says, will be closed by the latter part of the week and the entire plant will be shut up by next week. The pipe fitting and electrical departments were suspended at noon. The yard will remain closed until the machinists' strike has been settled. Nearly 7,000 men who are now employed at the shipyard will be thrown out of employment indefinitely.

Who Killed Arey?

Portsmouth, O., June 11.—Robert Arey, of Peebles, O., who put a bullet through his brain after having killed James Hamilton, was tenderly nursed by Mrs. Hamilton during his last hours. The murder and suicide have created the greatest excitement throughout the surrounding country. Both men were prominent farmers. Arey's attentions to Mrs. Hamilton caused Mrs. Arey to obtain a divorce some months ago. Some doubt has been expressed as to whether Arey's death was the result of his own hand. No powder marks are to be seen about his face or beneath his chin, where the bullet entered.

No one is too rich or too poor to use Arbucks' Coffee. The famous brand is blended to suit the taste of the many—not the few. Its price is made to suit the purses of all. It's the finest flavored coffee (richest in aroma) of any coffee of its kind in the world. A package of will make a larger quantity of coffee than a package of any of its imitations. Therefore, although it costs a cent a pound more, it is really less expensive than other package coffees. Order Arbucks' Coffee of your grocer and get more coffee goodness, greater actual value, than you can get in any other coffee at anywhere near its price.

Save the Signatures

on the wrappers. Each one entitles you to a definite part of some useful article—a list of which will be found in the package, together with full information.
